DETAILED ACTION

Specification

Applicant should note the disposition of the parent case in the specification.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-16 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-7,9-12 of U.S. Patent No. 6607151. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the omission of elements and their function e.g. filter, does not render the claims allowable over the parent patent.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1,9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Broillet.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4,12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Broillet. The patent does not specifically refer to Dead Sea minerals, but does refer to pharmaceutical products. Dead Sea minerals are a known pharmaceutical product. Therefore using Dead Sea minerals within the process of Broillet would have been an obvious design choice to one of ordinary skill in the art.

Claims 2,3,5-8,11,10,13-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Broillet as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Tumilty et al. Broillet does not separate out 'nuisance' materials which may result in an unwanted product. Tumilty et al solves this problem by disclosing a similar process and apparatus including a step shown in figures 1 and 2 of separating out unwanted material subsequent the crushing step. In order to produce the desired product, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Broillet by including a separating step and apparatus subsequent the crusher to remove unwanted material, taught to be desirable by Tumilty et al. The remaining limitations would then have been design choices only based on several factors such as material being treated and desired end results. For example, the temperature at which the material is treated would depend on the particular material being treated.
